Commissioner Edward E. McCall testified before the Thompson legislative investigating committee that he borrowed money from Andrew Freedman, giving as collateral $50,000 in stock of the Kings County Electric side of his expenses.

Lindsay & Fuller, who, it was said, appeared as counsel for certain relatives of Mrs. Flagler who draw incomes from her estate—she cannot spend all the income, although she has everything she desires.

Commissioner McCall's appointment as Mrs. Flagler's special guardian was regarded as a "plum" around the court house. Each year one Justice of another has allowed Mr. Freedman $20,000 from the estate outside of his expenses.

Of course it is not illegal for a Public Service Commissioner to engage in private law practice, however it may be regarded ethically. Since he resigned from the Supreme Court Bench, which paid him $17,500 a year, to accept his present position at $15,000, Commissioner McCall has figured in several important cases in the

and When to Wear It By Andre Dupont.

What to Wear

EVENING WRAPS FOR DANCES, THEATRE PARTIES AND THE OPERA.

No WOMAN who goes out at all socially can get along without an evening wrap. No matter how handsome a coat may be, if it is primarily intended for wear in the day time it cannot be used for the purpose one with the least pretension to fashion. To wear to dances, to the opera, to theatre parties or to any festivity where a decollete gown is the correct dress, an evening wrap is not only the proper thing, but it is also an absolute necessity. The new evening coats are so lovely that they are an irresistible temptation to even the most economically minded woman. They are also what fashion so often is not, eminently sensible, for they are generous in cut with loose sleeves that slip on easily without crushing fragile dance frocks and high collars of fur that protect the neck from the coldest

Velvet is the favorite material for these coats and this word also includes velveteen of fine, lustrous quality. Beautiful coats are made besides of brocades, heavy satins, moire plush and broadcloths. Two very lovely examples of these coats that show all the latest fashion ideas are displayed in the illustrations, one a remarkably graceful design of turquoise blue panne velvet trimmed with deep bands of fur, and the other of that fascinating new material called waterfall chenille, which is a heavily ribbed chenille surface on a net foundation and has the iridescent shimmer of mother of pearl the gleam of the inside of a seashell This coat is extremely simple in cut.

Palace Theatre ompany. Hammerstein wrote to the committee denouncing McCall.

"This seems to be a channel for calling me all sorts of names," exclaimed McCall with much heat. "I don't think theres any reason for answering such craxy screeds. I wouldn't dignify his charge by an answering such craxy screeds. I wouldn't dignify his charge by an answer. It's to absurd. Of course, it is not true."

The Hammerstein case was dropped, but it led into discussion of subway construction delays. McCall engaged in angry controversy with Senator Thompson.

"Any time you want to meet me on a public patform and discuss conduct of subway construction I am ready to meet you." said McCall.

"Til have something to say in the Senate on that subject," replied Thompson.

"And I'll have something to say in the Osenate on that subject," replied Thompson.

"And I'll have something to say on the outside," shouted McCall.

"Charles Stewart Davison was attorney in this case," explained Mecall. "It involved tax questions. In another case I had gone deeply into questions similar to those arising in this case, Mr. Davison came to see me at East Hampton.
